

Celebrating Volunteer Week 1-7 June. Thank you.

"I love walking in through the West Door of St Alfege to see the whole of the inside of the church that opening up to the glorious stained-glass window above the altar and below it the place of St Alfege's martyrdom."
Ann Steppel

"I am mostly looking forward to the Thomas Tallis Society concerts resuming somehow, and of course our own choir."
Nick Hervey

"For me walking into St. Alfege Church means life is back to normal, hurrah, we're together again, hurrah, looking outwards again, hurrah. Three cheers for us all."
Sue Plummer

"Seeing old and new faces. Feeling part of the community again and feeling safe."
Lita Tidman

"I love being in the church, keeping it open and enjoying witnessing visitors' pleasure."
Josephine Riches

"Waiting to sit again on St Alfege Church feeling the holy silence and the wonderful press of history."
Ian and Eleanor Clarke

"I look forward to meeting with interesting people in a peaceful place."
John Brady

"I'm looking forward to the cool calm and comforting feel of the interior of the church."
Jules Morley

"I'm most looking forward to walking into the church for the first time and reminding myself what a wonderful building St. Alfege Church really is."
Patrick Rice

"It will be wonderful to see all the people who made me so welcome as a volunteer, and the calmness St. Alfege gives me, plus the music and amazing choir."
Teresa Scotchmer

"The opportunity to repay at least some of the kindness and support shown to me by the people of St Alfege."
Elizabeth Pearcey

"I am so looking forward to being back in the place which has meant so much to me for the last 54 years."
Hessie Dagg

"I'm looking forward to showing visitors all the secret parts of the church, on our new tours. I'm looking forward to seeing all our celebrities in the crypt again, especially Enderby, Angerstein and Simon Fraser. I'm looking forward to laughing with Sue during our shifts on Sundays."
Suzy Jenvey

"I am really looking forward to seeing Angela. I call her a few times a week but I still miss her."
Agnes Jones

"I do look forward to being close to the wood in the church, it seemed to be both warm and cool and adds to the wonderful feeling of calm."
Iris Dove

"Can't wait to touch familiarity and experience the quiet, reflective and safe ambience of the building."
Anne Burton

"I'm looking forward to welcoming people from all over the world to a church with a wonderful history where they can hear beautiful music."
Nick Hilborne

"Looking forward to renewing my acquaintance with St Alfege, the church at the centre of historic Greenwich."
Ian McCarthy

"Mondays just haven't been the same."
Dermot Agnew

"I am really looking forward to meeting up with the volunteers again, seeing their smiling faces, and, as always, exchanging things we have learnt about St Alfege Church."
David McEvoy
